Financing a just and orderly transition: Filling the gaps to pave the way to a credible transition path

 9th November 2022 10:30-12:00 (EET)
8:30 GMT / 04:30 EDT / 17:30 JST

 Japan Pavilion (Blue Zone)
Sharm el-Sheikh / Egypt

As a Japanese financial institution with a strong commitment to achieve net zero by 2050, MUFG Bank has an interest in reducing emissions across its portfolio, not just through divestment from the brown economy and higher investment in the green economy, but even more through facilitating the transition of the real economy by providing transition finance. This way, MUFG Bank can support decarbonization through active engagement with its clients.

This seminar will showcase the challenges and opportunities related to a just and orderly transition from the perspectives of various stakeholders in different regions. The panel discussion will take stock of what has been done so far and share insights on what needs to be done further to unlock capital to support a just and orderly transition particularly in emerging economies and developing countries and accelerate the path to net zero globally.
