Consolidated gross profits for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2026, increased by 1,125.1 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 5,944.4 billion yen. This was due to contributions from overseas acquisitions; an increase in net interest income, reflecting the incorporation of the impact of rising JPY interest rates, improved margins, and improvement effects associated with bond rebalancing in the previous fiscal year; an increase in net fees and commissions driven by growth in fee-based businesses both domestically and globally; and an increase in net other operating profits, primarily due to a rebound from net losses on debt securities realized through rebalance of the bond portfolio included in the previous fiscal year. General and administrative expenses increased by 339.1 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 3,567.2 billion yen, mainly due to investments in resources for growth, the impact of inflation and overseas acquisitions. As a result, net operating profits increased by 786.0 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 2,377.2 billion yen.

Total credit costs increased by 247.1 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 355.8 billion yen, mainly due to a rebound of the large reversal of overseas credit costs included in the previous fiscal year. Net gains on equity securities decreased by 106.5 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 486.0 billion yen, mainly due to a rebound of the large gains on sales of equity holdings included in the previous fiscal year. Equity in earnings of equity method investees increased by 248.5 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 845.5 billion yen, mainly due to strong performance at Morgan Stanley. As a result, ordinary profits increased by 740.7 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 3,410.1 billion yen, and profits attributable to owners of parent increased by 564.2 billion yen from the previous fiscal year to 2,427.2 billion yen.

Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements

(Notes on Going-Concern Assumption)

None.

(Changes in Accounting Estimates)

(Change in the credit rating system used for calculating the allowance for credit losses)

Our principal domestic consolidated banking subsidiaries have established a credit rating system that is consistent with the borrower classification as a uniform standard for evaluating credit risk. The allowance for credit losses is calculated using internal credit ratings determined based on such credit rating system.

Following the adoption of a new credit rating system designed to further enhance their credit risk management framework, the subsidiaries calculated their allowance for credit losses using internal credit ratings determined under the new credit rating system beginning in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2026.

The impact of the resulting changes in accounting estimates on our consolidated financial statements for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2026, is immaterial.

(Additional Information)

(Information which is relevant to the understanding of the readers of the consolidated financial statements regarding the calculation of allowance for credit losses)

The process of calculating the allowance for credit losses for MUFG Bank, Ltd. ("the Bank") and its domestic consolidated subsidiaries, our principal domestic consolidated banking subsidiaries, involves various estimates such as determination of borrower credit ratings which are based on evaluation and classification of borrowers' debt-service capacity, assessment of the value of collateral provided by borrowers, estimation of future cash flows when applying the cash flow estimation method, and adjustments for future loss projections and other factors to the loss rates calculated based on historical credit loss experience.

Among these, internal credit ratings are assigned to counterparties based on qualitative factors such as the current and expected future business environment of the industry to which they belong as well as their management and funding risks in addition to quantitative financial evaluations through an analysis of their financial results. In particular, those determination of internal credit ratings for these counterparties may be highly dependent on our assessment of the prospects of improvements in their operating results and their ability to continue as going concerns.

When calculating allowance for credit losses, the Bank, our principal consolidated domestic banking subsidiary, determines loss rates primarily by calculating a rate of loss based on a historical average of the credit loss rate or a historical average of the default probability derived from actual credit loss experience or actual bankruptcy experience and making necessary adjustments based on future projections and other factors.

The Bank makes such adjustments to the loss rates calculated based on historical loss experience, taking into account future projections and other factors, especially considering the uncertain business environment arising from potential changes in the geopolitical environment, including the situation in the Middle East. These adjustments are implemented made when deemed necessary, for example, by considering any additional expected loss amount not captured by the loss rates calculated based on historical loss experience. The amount of impact of these adjustments as of March 31, 2026 is ¥24,357 million (¥33,610 million as of March 31, 2025).

In addition, certain overseas subsidiaries which apply IFRS recognize allowance for credit losses in accordance with IFRS9 "Financial Instruments." At each reporting date, these subsidiaries assess whether the credit risk on a financial asset has increased significantly since initial recognition, and if the credit risk has not increased significantly since initial recognition, the subsidiaries measure the allowance for credit losses for the financial asset at an amount equal to the 12-month expected credit loss. On the other hand, if the credit risk on a financial asset has increased significantly since initial recognition, the subsidiaries measure the allowance for credit losses for the financial asset at an amount equal to the lifetime expected credit loss. Expected credit losses are calculated using a quantitative model that reflects economic forecast scenarios based on macroeconomic variables. The calculation process includes determination of macroeconomic variables used in multiple economic forecast scenarios and the weightings applied to each economic forecast scenario. Expected credit losses are adjusted for qualitative factors to compensate for expected credit losses that are not reflected in a quantitative model.

Significant assumptions used in our calculation of allowance for credit losses, including those described above, are subject to uncertainty. In particular, certain counterparties' prospects of improvements in their operating results and expectations as to their ability to continue as going concerns, and adjustments to the rates of loss calculated based on actual experience for future projections and other factors, as well as determination of the macroeconomic variables used in, and the weightings applied to, multiple economic forecast scenarios, and adjustments thereto for qualitative factors, by certain subsidiaries which apply IFRS, are based on estimation relating to the economic environment, including changes in economic conditions, commodity prices and monetary and trade policies in each country as well as geopolitical environment, including the situation in the Middle East, with respect to which objective data are not readily available.

In particular, future developments concerning the geopolitical environment, including the situation in the Middle East, are subject to significant uncertainty. Accordingly, we make certain assumptions, including that disruptions in logistics and supply chain constraints related to crude oil and other commodities may continue for a certain period, but that conditions will gradually normalize, and that prices of crude oil and other commodities, while fluctuating to a certain degree, will then be on a gradual stabilizing trend. The recorded allowance represents our best estimate made based on such assumptions and in a manner designed to ensure objectivity and rationality.

These assumptions change to reflect actual developments in the geopolitical environment, including the situation in the Middle East, and changes in the assumptions may result in an increase or decrease in the allowance for credit losses in the following fiscal year.
